Wintry showers may bring some travel disruption across northern parts of Scotland on Saturday.

What to expect

- Some roads and railways likely to be affected with longer journey times by road
- Some injuries from slips and falls on icy surfaces
- Probably some icy patches on some untreated roads, pavements and cycle paths

Further details

A cold northerly airflow will become established across Scotland bringing frequent snow showers across the northern half of the country. The showers will fall as wet snow or sleet near coasts, whereas inland showers will be predominantly as snow leading to a few centimetres building up in places. Icy stretches may develop too, leading to some tricky travel conditions.
